

Group dental insurance works like group medical insurance in that it is usually offered to members of the same organization. Most dental plans are separate from health insurance plans, but some insurers may combine the two. When not included in a health plan, dental coverage may be available as an add-on or as a stand-alone plan.